

The University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law
Native American Law Students Association presents

27TH ANNUAL NATIONAL NALSA MOOT COURT COMPETITION

March 1-2, 2019

Tucson, Arizona

Hello Friends and Family of NNALSA,

The University of Arizona is proud to be hosting the 27th Annual National Native American Law Student Association (NNALSA) Moot Court Competition. The competition will be held at James E. Rogers College of Law on March 1-2, 2019. NNALSA provides an opportunity for native law students all over the country to explore current issues in Indian country, write a Supreme Court style brief, and argue both sides of the issues in front of practicing attorneys and judges.

NNALSA Moot Court could not happen without the support of volunteers to serve as judge and bailiffs for the competition. NNALSA is currently recruiting brief judges, oral argument judges, and oral argument bailiffs. Brief judges will be assigned briefs to score throughout January and February. Oral argument judges and bailiffs need to be present March 1-2 for the competition. An in-person judge and bailiff orientation will be held the morning of March 1. All scoring is done pursuant to the 2019 NNALSA Moot Court Rules.

If you are interested in volunteering for any of the positions, please contact Kayla Wrolson, Moot Court Administrator, at nnalsa.vicepresident@gmail.com. Thank you for supporting NNALSA.

Sincerely,

Kayla Wrolson
Vice President, NNALSA
J.D. Candidate, 2019
University of Arizona Law